

ISWE Budget 2023 Event

When? Tuesday 4th of October, 2.45 pm

Where? In UCD, Room D201, Newman building, school of Economics (and hybrid)
<https://ucd-ie.zoom.us/j/69555426837?pwd=R1kzdU9UWDFYaXJHYoZucXJRbEhkZz09>

Drinks will follow!

What is the event about?

---

Discussion and analysis of the budget 2023

1. What is the main focus of the Budget 2023?
2. What is really new? Does it introduce new income bands?
3. How does it address the issues of energy prices and housing?
4. How does the budget addresses inequality?
5. Any other measure we should potentially consider?
6. Focus: Bring out the issues of housing, energy prices, and inequality

We hope the speakers can contribute with the following (of course they are all free to raise the issues the think as most important!)

- Martina: Tax, housing and macro perspective and inequality
- Aedín: Distribution and inequality perspective
- Emma: Mediator, bring also climate perspective and guide the discussion and the questions
- Yota: Makes the introductions and hosts the event

What is the format and the structure of the event?

---

Panel discussion

1. Initially we can describe/discuss the budget
2. Then we can discuss what that means mostly around housing and energy
3. Then focus on other measures that could help with inequality

And of course...who are ISWE?

---

About

Irish Society for Women in Economics (ISWE) is a platform seeking to inspire, empower and increase women's visibility in economics in Ireland

Scope

ISWE has been created to ensure that the role of economists in public debates and policy decisions, as well as the educational and private sector organisations, are more representative of Irish society in terms of gender balance, and support minority representation. For more information you can check our website (<https://www.iea.ie/irish-society-for-women-in-economics-iswe/>)