

Pathways to the Professions

Tackling diversity barriers to career success.

Outreach

- Professional awareness activities through role modelling to build confidence and aspirations in primary and post-primary students.
- Information to build community capacity.

University

- Embedding University for All principles to mainstream inclusion.
- Financial, personal and academic support to aid student success in their professional programmes.

Mentorship

Mentoring opportunities for students and graduates to build confidence and connections.

Early Career Progression

Opportunities within professions such as internships, placements and networking to build confidence and ensure easy transition into professions.

Inclusive Workplaces

Professional learning opportunities to champion inclusion within the professions.

University College Dublin
University for All

RETHINK IRELAND

MASON
HAYES &
CURRAN

Alt text:

An image depicting the pathway to the profession steps with the following text: Pathways to the Professions. Tackling diversity barriers to early career progression. Steps: 1. Outreach. Profession awareness activities through role modelling to develop confidence and aspiration of primary and post primary students. Information and guidance to build community capacity. 2. University. Embedding University for All principles to mainstream inclusion. Financial, personal and academic support to aid student success in their professional programmes. 3. Mentorship. Mentoring opportunities for students and graduates to build confidence and connections. 4. Early career progression. Opportunities within the professions such as internships, placements and networking to build confidence and ensure easy transition into professions. 5. Inclusive workplaces. Professional learning opportunities to champion inclusion within the professions.